All About Mrs. Janet

Mrs. Janet is a Preschool teacher at Queen of All Saints School. She loves to teach and is a very extraordinary person. When she was younger, she wanted to become a vet because she loves animals but that all changed when her 5th and 8th grade teacher inspired her to become a teacher. She was so inspired by how funny and awesome they were that she wanted to do that to a person too. She went to UMSL College because it was close to home and she didn't want to leave her family behind. She loves them very much and couldn't bear to leave them. Before she started her teaching career, she had two jobs. A job at Schnucks and a job at Pure One Imports, a retail store that sells furniture, toys, bedding, and more.

Once Mrs. Janet finished College and got her degree in teaching, she started her life-long career as a teacher. She chooses to work at Queen of All Saints because she loves catholic schools and how warming the environment is here at QAS. After becoming a teacher, there was nothing she had to give up. After being a preschool teacher for a long time, she would never want to be a principal because she would miss teaching young ones. She also thinks a principal has too much responsibility. Because she teaches young children, she does have to take extra master's and PE classes to learn more about young children and how to understand them. If she had the choice she would never want to transition to a public school because she doesn't like the communities of public schools. She loves the welcoming, kind communities of private schools.

When Mrs. Janet's teaching career is over, she hopes to stay in St. Louis and take care of her grandchildren. She wants to spoil them as much as he can. She also wants to travel the world, and she knows all the wonderful features of our interesting world. Mrs. Janet is a bright and bubbly person and she is very fascinating to learn about her and get to know her!
